

PREFACE

“Thank God for presiding pastor’s labour to preach from the book of Proverbs afresh. Thank God that the man of God immediately put right what was wrong when he demanded the sisters to get their skirts changed. He made it a point that unless the people of God are prepared to attire themselves modestly at the place of worship, they should not come. Thank God for pastor’s love today when he explained the book of Proverbs to us. As he began and reviewed the past messages on Proverbs, he also showed me the divisions therein. My eyes were opened to see wondrous things out of God’s law. Chapter 31 is a prophecy not belonging to Solomon but to Lemuel’s mother. I could read these a thousand times but it is only the man of God whom God has used to explain things that our naked eyes cannot see. Thank God that pastor showed me first of all why on one hand wisdom is spoken of in the masculine sense and on the other, it is spoken of in the feminine sense. He also showed me why the last chapter speaks about a virtuous woman. Pastor tricked us by saying that he was going to preach about marriage; I could see how foolish and superficial I am. Thank God that pastor brought out these two entities: the false church, depicted as the strange woman; and the true church, depicted as the chaste woman. As these two entities were made manifest, thank God that pastor showed me that they are both vying to catch my attention. I see that with the proliferation of the wrong gospels and a lack of understanding of spiritual things, there is a very high possibility that I would be seduced by the temptress and end up in the congregation of the dead. While showing me the evil intent of this strange woman, pastor at the same time showed me the beauty of this chaste woman. Thank God that pastor brought to me eschatology in Proverbs. Thank God that pastor showed me the subliminal message in this book. I was shown all the virtues of the church of Yeshua Christ. I yearn for all these virtues. I desire to be rid of all the vices which I see in my life which is no different from the strange woman. I thank God that I was shown Yeshua Christ is wisdom personified. I could see that ‘wisdom is speaking’ in the book of Proverbs. I pray that God may give me wholehearted compassionate love that I may have all these virtues and I may be a member of the church of Yeshua Christ. Thank God for a very beautiful sermon.” Phinehas David Yeoh.
